NOT TO TAKE THE PLACES OF THE MINERS. HOWEVER.

WEATHERLY TURNS OUT IN FORCE TO WELCOMB THE SEEKERS AFTER FRESH AIR-A

SECOND PARTY ORDERED. Weatherly, Penn., July 21 .- This town, near the centre of the State, is accustomed to having large companies of people pass through it and visit it, but the people were exerwhelmed by the three carloads of children from the tenement-houses of New-York, who arrived on Wednesday afternoon after a happy ride of four hours in a Lehigh Valley train. Barnum's circus could not have attracted a larger crowd than gathered at the station when

The Tribune Fresh Air party was due.

When an agent of the Fund went through this part of the State a few weeks ago and described the homes in New-York which he had visited in company with a missionary of a chapel on the East Side, he had only to tell what he had seen and heard to arouse the deepest interest in the children of the poor. He did not need a stereopticon to enforce his arguments, for, in addition to what he saw in the homes which he visited, he repeated touching instances of self-denial and heroism, of struggles with poverty and almost unparalleled devotion which had come under the personal observation of the faithful visitor who acted as his guide that day.

THE CITY FOR A TENEMENT LANDLORD. Had Mr. Dechant been able to carry a little of he tenement-house odor with him, especially from the Bono Alley barracks, in Willett-st., of which the Bone Alley barracks, in Willett-st., of which the city is now the landlord, his words would have had still greater weight. It interests the people of Weatherly to know that a goodly number of the one hundred and fifty children in the party came from the district which he described and from the chapel whose missionary is a daily visitor in the homes where there are sorrows and suffering. Many of the tales of distress which she hears are too sacred to be repeated even to create symare too sacred to be repeated even to create sym-pathy for the little ones, whose lot might be brightened by this recital.

"I don't want those large girls," said a well-intentioned host, as two gir's, ten or eleven years old, were assigned to her. "I want little girls." These were smaller when they started," began the man in charge of the party, who intended to explain that the supply of little girls for this party ran out, but before he could say more one of the ministers said:

"Please give me those two girls; they are just large enough to go to my house," and for the next half-hour the woman stood waiting to see whether there would be any child whom she could secure. One man was late in coming to the church in where the distribution was raide and as no word. where the distribution was made, and as no word had been heard from him, the little girl who would have gone with him was given to her, and she went away only half-satisfied. In a few minutes the man came, and was sorely disappointed to find that his boarder had slipped away. So great was the demand for the children that a second party was ordered by telegraph next morning.

There was a much larger number of "tots," or "dots," as some of them might be called, in this party than is usual in Fresh Air companies. Several of the children were under five years of age, and one little mite is now enjoying her third sumptres. met; her first two had been spent in a tenementhouse not far from Tompkins Square. The ma-jority of the children would be proper subjects of

CHURCH UNITY MANIFESTED.

Nearly every church in town was actively interested in securing homes for the children. The Rev. James Moore, jr., of the Presbyterian Church, was appointed chairman of the committee, but an acci-dent to his mother prevented his serving, and his place was most effectively filled by the Rev. J. W. Buckley, of the Methodist Church. The Rev. A. M. Masonheimer, of the German Reformed Church; the Rev. E. R. Seip, of the Evangelical Church; the Rev. D. G. Gerberich, of the Lutheran Church, water.

Two boys had been taken to the station at a venture by a missionary, thinking that possibly there might be a vacancy in the party which they might fill. There was a vacancy, two children from another mission failing to appear in time, and the boys were told that they could go. With their suspense ended, their happiness was complete, suspense ended, their happiness was complete. Each lad dropped his bundle and threw his arms around the neck of his "pai" with all the fervor of Huguenot lavers and with none of their affectation.

of Huguenot lovers and with none of their affectation.

Most of the children in the party knew very little of grass and trees and flowers three days ago, but they were not kept long in ignorance. The contrast between the hospitable homes which they are now enjoying and those which they have left
are now enjoying and those which they have left behind can be fully understood only by those who see the children here and then think of their homes in the crowded districts, where the population is more than a thousand to the acre and is growing denser with the arrival of every steamship. Some of the children are orphans, some are half-orphans, and to not a few orphanage, in whole or in part,
would be a great boon. Some of the little people come from homes where heatness and culture are strangers, while others show in dress and manner that poverty and ignorance are not necessarily neighbors.

JOY AND SORROW IN HUMBLE HOMES. Two of the smaller girls are the daughters of an asheart driver who was injured not long ago. While he was laid up one of his children was taken ill. "and as if that were not enough trouble," said the mother recently, "Iwins were born about that time."

To say that the arrival of the twins was halled with joy would be putting the case a little too strong; it would require poetle license to make that statement, and in the asheart driver's home there is usually more prose than poetry. And yet it would be difficult to find in any company of one hundred and fifty to hidden two girs neater, sweeter or better behaved than are these sisters.

In the party was a little Hebrew girl but it is doubtful if that fact is discovered during the forthish. The child was heartly welcomed by her hight. The child was heartly welcomed by her high the can be done until the last baby grows up. The question of creed will probably not be raised in this case, as it was a year ago in another Peansylvania town. A Jewish boy had been sent to a sylvania town. A Jewish boy had been sent to a sylvania town. A Jewish boy had been sent to a sylvania town. A Jewish boy had been sent to a sylvania town. A Jewish boy had been sent to a sylvania town. A Jewish boy had been sent to a sylvania town. A Jewish boy had been sent to a sylva "and as if that were not enough trouble," said the mother recently, "twins were born about that time."

"A Jew never sleeps with a Christian!"

"A Jew never sleeps with a Christian!"

"But we're no Christians, are we mamma?" retorted the farmer's son with no little show of indignation. The story was too good to keep, in spite of the unintentional reflection upon the piety of his parents, and soon it became current property in the town. The boys, however, slept alone.

There were several colored children in the party this week, leading the caretakers to believe that there must be a colored children in the party there must be a colored children in Weatherly, as a matter of fact, it is said that there is not a colored family in the town. Inquiry showed that the dark visuaged visitors are to be entertained in some of the best homes in the village. The following expanation was given: When the names of hosts were handed in, it was found that one Presbyterian family had asked for a colored boy. Not to be outdone by a follower of Calvin, some of the representatives of Wesley sent for two or three colored children, and soon orders for others came in. So great was the demand for the children of Ham when the party arrived that if there had been an exira dozen colored boys and girls, every one would have found a home within five minutes. In the supplementary party the colored race was not forgotten.

MANY FRESH AIR PARTIES GO TO-DAY THANKS TO THE KINDNESS OF INTERESTED FRIENDS, 250 CHILDREN START

FOR THE COUNTRY To-day will be a day of activity for the workers of The Tribune Fresh Air Fund. Ten parties, aggregating 251 children, leave for the country. From o'clock in the morning till 8 o'clock in the evendren are not getting ready for the merry journey. I: will be a wholesale transferrence of suffering little mortals from heat, dirt and squalor to cleanitness and purity. The change will be the more ecquise of the great amount of rain recently. It means a journey from indoor life in close, small rooms to a country which the showers have made more radiant and beautiful than ever. They will be happy youngsters who wake up tomorrow to their first day in the country. To-day's parties will go to Friendshipville, Penn.; Romulus, N. Y.; Honesdale, Penn.; Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Hunterslandt, N. Y.; Lancaster, Penn.; Fairfield, Conn.; Stafford Springs, Conn.; Cazenovia, N. Y., W.

and Hazleton, Penn.

There are three parties which leave to-day which have the distinction of being, in each case, the sec-

MINORS IN PENNSYLVANIA. ond party which has gone to the same place this summer and in which the children have been in-vited to private homes. These parties go to Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Honesdale, Penn., and Cazenovia N. Y. At Poughkeepsie, Guilford Dudley has succeeded Henry V. Pelton, who was incapacitated by absence in the task of providing for the children. Twenty children go there this morning. Miss Jen-nie Lee, of Honesdale, has again forwarded invitations from sympathizers with the poor children of the city, and fifteen of the latter will be entertained there for two weeks. Cazenovia, N. Y., receives its second party of twenty-five children to-morrow morning. They leave to-night, and make an all-night trip of it. This party is to be followed by two more this summer, and the arrangements are being made by G E. Williams. Cazenovia peo-are being made by G. E. Williams. Cazenovia peo-ple are doing a wholesale good this summer. The Romulus party, of twenty-eight, is a party-of historic interest. Thirteen years ago Mr. Vail, of Romulus, forwarded invitations for a party of Fresh Air children. The children were so well liked that almost all were reinvited the following summer, and in every succeeding summer Mrs. Vall has arranged for a visit from "Fresh Airs." Some of those children who caught their first glimpse of the country thirteen years ago in Romulus have revisited their country friends every sumlus have revisited their country friends every summer. Of course, the Fresh Air children of thirteen years ago have now grown up into men and women. It is an interesting fact that one of them who first went to Romulus as a little girl has been married to a well-to-do farmer there, and is now living in the country and entertains Fresh Air children every summer herself. Those who have been beneficiaries of Fresh Air excursions appreciate their value. The kind women who have asked for children this year are Mrs Vall. Mrs. Kunes, Mrs. Burtsell, Mrs. Warn, Mrs. Lisk, Mrs. Wyckoff and Mrs. Metcalf.

Mrs. Warn, Mrs. Lisk, Mrs. Wyckoff and Mrs. Metcalf.

At Stafford Springs, Conn., invitations have come through A. J. Melleod for thirty-seven children, which is an act of hespitality that is appreclated.

A little band of fourteen children will leave for Lancaster, Penn., at noon. Seven of them will stay in Lancaster homes, where they have been atranged for by the Rev. A. B. Ashleman, and the other half will be entertained in Millersville, a nearby place. The invitations for these have been forwarded through the Rev. J. K. Brubaker. The following people have invited children: Jacob B.
Herr, John Weaver, David Herr, Harry Eschilhach, Abraham Charles, Miss Amanda Kindy, Miss
Emma Hershey, Pharus Steahman and J. J. Haverstick.

To Hypterslandt, N. V. a party of thirtnen ac-

Emma Hershey, Pharus Steahman and J. J. Haverstick.

To Hunterslandt, N. Y., a party of thirteen, accompanied by two "specials," will go to-day. Mrs. Ithamer Bell has arranged for these children's reception, and they have been invited by the following kind people: Mrs. E. Beyman, Mrs. Henry Young, Mrs. Willte George, Mrs. Leonard Dennison, Mrs. Ithamer Bell and Harvey Becker.

The party for Hazleton is one of twelve children, whose invitations came too late for them to go with the regular party on July 19. They have been invited through the Rev. G. Lees.

GOLFING ON WET LINKS.

BAKER, REID AND THOMAS THE WINNERS AT ST. ANDREWS.

As a fair weather contest, the St. Andrew. handicap yesterday would have been termed good, but played as it was in a drenching rain, it may and the Rev. It was the fourth in drews Club was the ploneer of golf on this side the water, and since the present course was estab-lished, in 1887, it has been identified with some of the most brilliant golfing contests in the East.

Another drawback was the sodden condition of the soil, which seemed to hold water like a sponge, and send it spurting again whenever a stroke made. Notwithstanding this, however, the play was aggressive and spirited throughout. The handicapping was something over which the committee should feel especially pleased.

The contextants were divided into three classes yesterday, according to their rating. In Class A, Baker led the scratch men, and won by a close margin. Bowers and John Reid, jr., tied for second place each at S, which was the best gross score made during the day. Sands, another back marker, came next with a score of 21. John Reid, the president of the club, captured the Class B contest, the first he has won since his identification with the club. Wildes and C. F. Kerr were tied for second place, each at 34 net. In the third class J. Metcalfe Thomas was first, with Frank Cunningham as his closest competitor.

ST. PAUL GOLFERS DEFEATED BY TUXEDO. The St. Paul School golf team, of Concord, N. H., was defeated yesterday by the Tuxedo players or the latters' links, at Tuxedo Park, by a score of 30 to 0. This makes the fifth consecutive time the schoolboys have been beaten by teams in this neighborhood. As a rule, they outdrove their onneighborhood. As a rule, they outdrove their opponents yesterday, but were outmatched in approaching and putting. Talbot, of the Tuxedo players, made the best showing of any of the home team, covering the course in 84. E. C. Rushmore, who is reckoned among the strongest amateurs in this country, was drawn against Grannis, the captain of the St. Paul team. The latter was four down as a result of the match. T. Suffern Talier, another of the Tuxedo men, took nie holes from L'Hommedieu, while Van Cortland was eight up on Smith. Brinley, one of the masters of the school, who has been playing with the team lately, was defeated by Dinsmore by three holes. Here

EDWARDS LEADS DYKER MEADOW PLAY-ERS

Fifteen of the Dyker Meadow players donned their golfing togs yesterday and took part in the third monthly handicap of the club over the Fort Hamilton links. Of this number only nine finished, rain and the difficulties of the course being rerain and the difficulties of the course being responsible for the poor showing. Dupcan Edwards won the contest, with W. K. Fowler second. The latter made a record not unsually put down in golfing tournaments by covering the last nine holes in forty minutes. Chauncey, the captain of the Dyker Meadow team and the winner of last month's hardicap, was in poor form, and finished fourth. Edwards's winning card was as follows:

NEW-YORK WINS TWICE.

THE FIRST A CLOSE GAME, THE SECOND AN EASY VICTORY.

St. Louis, July 21.—New-York took two games from St. Louis to-day. The first was closely played on both sides. Donahue took Hart's place in the box in the ninth and the Giants batted out the game. The New-Yorks won the second game in a walk, knocking McDermott out of the box in the sixth, and Coleman was batted equally hard. Attendance 2000. Score.

BLOCKADED AT ITS BUSIEST HOUR.

A COLLISION CAUSES OVER AN HOUR'S DELAY ON THE BROADWAY CABLE ROAD.

It was a case of get out and walk on the Broadway cable road yesterday morning. One of the usual blockades occurring, as usual, at the busiest time of the day, happened shortly after 7 o'clock on the downtown track of the road, and for an nour and a half the road was blocked, the line of waiting cars extending above Dead Man's Curve for several blocks. The cause of the blockade was a collision between a hig ice wagon, drawn by three horses, and one of the cars. The car and the wagon became entangled, and it seemed almost impossible to extricate them. The wrecking wagons hurried to the rescue, but with all the efforts of the crews the tracks were unavailable for more than an hour.

Buzzelle, who conducted for many years with remarkable efficiency the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities. Later Mr. Ayres studied at the Johns Hopkins University, receiving the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. He then organized the Bureau of Charities in the city of Cincinnati, achieving special success in the enrolment of volunteer workers as friendly visitors and in other capaci-

The place in the New-York Charity Organization Society which Mr. Ayres will occupy is virtually the same as that formerly held by Robert W. The office has been temporarily filled by Professor A. B. Woodford, of New-Haven, Conn.

LIGHTNING'S FREAKS IN JERSEY.

Morristown, July 21 (Special) -A heavy electrical storm did much damage here to-day. Three houses in various parts of the city were struck and coniderably damaged. The grandstand at the Morristown Driving Park was struck by a bolt and a large portion of it shattered. The large barns of David H. McAlpin, about two miles from the city, were set on fire by the lightning and totally con-sumed, together with about twenty tons of hay. The loss is about $7.500.

GRANT ON POLICE MATTERS

THE COMMISSIONER PROTESTS AGAINST ONE WAY OF DETECTING CRIME.

IT IS NOT NECESSARY, HE SAYS, THAT EVIDENCE AGAINST DISORDERLY HOUSES SHOULD BE SO OBTAINED AS TO MAKE POLICEMEN

LIARS AND SNEAKS-WILL RESIGN IF HIS VIEWS ARE NOT LIKED.

Police Commissioner Grant provoked discussion at the meeting of the Police Board yesterday by presenting a report against placing Captain Groo, of the Mercer-st. station, on trial for having failed to close four disorderly houses in his precinct. Colonel Grant said in the report that he had examined the charges and the affidavits of Central Office detectives upon which the charges rested. The evidence which showed the character of the four houses had been obtained, he said, "by lying, as well as by participating in acts of shamelessas well as by participating in acts of shamelessness, as did the agents of the Society for the Prevention of Crime who testified against Captain Eakins." Then followed these statements:

The only evidence against Captain Groo in support of the charges against him has been obtained in the manner disapproved of by the Honorable Justices. Using their opinion as a guide, and following my Gwn ideas of what is right. I emphatically disapprove of the method of obtaining evidence against Captain Groo, and also of the charge.

DEFINING HIS POSITION.

Colonel Grant then proceeded to define his own pinions as to the method of procuring evidence So far as I am personally concerned, I shall never command or permit to be commanded any police officer to do personally the degrading acts committed by the Central Office men in this case and by the so-called agents who testified in the Eakins case. It is only just to the men whose affidavits I have to state that in expressing to me tneir own feelings about the work they were called upon to perform that they found it most distasteful, demoralizing and abhorrent. I myself do not admit that to secure a fine of $5 or any nominal punishment usually inflicted on the miserable outcasts, who unfortunately return to their trade after their punishment, the whole police force should be demoralized and converted into a body of hars and sneaks. If I were a member of the uniformed force I would resign before I would do, or command others to do, the acts indicated, which disgrace the profession and the men. If my views on this question differ from those of my collegues and of His Honor the Mayor, I wish to resign my position as a member of this Police Beard. This matter is to me one of vital principle, and not merely a matter of administration to which one can yield his opinion.

RESOLUTIONS THAT STARTED TALK. command or permit to be commanded any police

RESOLUTIONS THAT STARTED TALK. With the report Colonel Grant submitted two resolutions, which he asked to have passed by the opinion of the Board it was conduct unbecoming an officer to secure evidence in the manner described in the report and also declared that any described in the report and also declared that any officer found guilty of securing evidence in that manner would be dismissed from the police force. The other resolution provided for the appointment of a committee of the Board to devise and report for the guidance of the Chief of Police and his subordinates "such a plan and procedure for enforcing the laws for the regulation and suppression of disorderly houses as can be followed by members of the force without, on their part, participation in or instigation of acts of faisehood, immorality or indecency."

of the force without, on their part, participation in or instigation of acts of falsehood, immorality or indecency.

In the discussion which followed President Moss said: "I know nothing that would be more pleasing to some captains who want to run their precincts their own way than to have this Board pass your resolutions as they are. Your reflections upon the character of men who have performed this sort of work are uncalled for. The mere fact that they have been called to do this is not a reflection. I am friendly and associated with men who have been through this thing. If your resolutions are adopted, they will give over certain fat precincts to police officers who want to have things their own way. They could make money on that."

Colonel Grant replied that whenever an officer was found blackmailing any one he should be dismissed from the force.

Mr. Moss said that policemen could not be dismissed on suspicion. He asked if the police were not to concern themselves at all about disorderly houses. In that case, he said, there would be a great increase of these houses, and he wanted to know what Colonel Grant would do with them.

Colonel Grant replied that his second resolution provided a way for reaching disorderly houses by restricting them to a certain district.

After further discussion the resolutions were laid over until next week.

A DYING WOMAN'S STRANGE BEQUEST.

SHE LEAVES MONEY TO BUY BEER AND SAND-WICHES FOR THE MEMBERS OF A CLUB TO WHICH SHE BELONGED.

Mrs. Elizabeth Livermore, of Hoboken, who died two months ago, was secretary of the Hoboken Independent Frauen Verein, and was a favorite in the organization. She was of a joily disposition and often told Mrs. Bente, the president, that when she died and left a vacancy in the secretaryship she did not desire the members to mourn was simply a matter of a few days, she sent for a lawyer and asked him to draw up her will, laying particular emphasis upon the fact that she desired to leave the sum of $5 to the Frauen Verein, to be to leave the sum of $5 to the Frauen Verein, to be used in defraying the expenses of providing a keg of beer and a luncheon for the members.

Mrs. Livermore also sent for Mrs. Bente, and secured from the president a promise that she would see that the women would have a good time with the money. Mrs. Bente pledged the dying secretary that dancing would be an attraction at the "after-death sociable."

The post-mortem festivities took place at Vasel's Hall, in Adams-st., Hoboken, on Tuesday night, after the regular meeting of the verein. It was attended by twenty-five women, who are sand-withers, drank beer, danced and shed tears out of deference to the wishes and respect to the memory of Mrs. Livermore.

MENT WITH A FRIEND.

Christopher Egert, the seventy-year-old suicide, whose body was found hanging from a transom between the two rooms he occupied at No. 236 Avenue A, on Tuesday night, is believed to have killed himself because of a disagreement he had with his lifelong friend and companion, Christopher Schaeffer. The dead man and Schaeffer were in separable until recently. They were both born at Strasburg, Germany, where they were educated together and learned the carpenter's trade at the same workbench. Soon afterward they married, and came to this country with their families thirty years ago. Egert had two sons and Schaeffer had two daughters, one of whom is the wife of William Several years ago the wives of Schaeffer and Egert died and then the two agreed to live to-gether apart from their children, who were by this time grown up and in comfortable circumstances They lived a quiet and peaceful life, it is alleged, until a few weeks ago. Up to the time of the disagreement they had cooked and eaten their meals together. Then, after the falling out, Schaeffer, together. Then, after the falling out, Schaeffer, it is said, kept in his rooms and ate and prepared his meals alone. His old friend did the same.

Egert was last seen alive on Saturday. As he had not paid his sons a visit for several days, William Egert went to the house late on Tuesday night to learn what had happened to his father. He found the door opening into his father, He found the door opening into his father, room locked, and his father hanging lifeless from a transom in the rooms. The dead man had hanged himself, apparently several days ago. His body was badly decomposed, but, although occupying rooms adjeiting those in which Egert lived, Schaeffer did not knew until Tuesday night that his old friend was dead.

ITS THREE WOMEN OCCUPANTS IMPRISONED UN-TIL RELEASED BY A POLICEMAN.

While Park Policeman Mulvey was patrolling the West Drive in Central Park yesterday, near Eightyfourth-st, he found a carriage drawn by two horses overturned in the bushes and three women imprisoned. They were got out safely. While the coach was going down the West Drive one of the horses had been frightened by a little girl on a bicycle coming from behind and bolted into the bushes at the side of the road. The coach was overturned and its three occupants could not get out until assisted by Mulvey and several clizens. The coach was then righted, but the women refused to get into it again, and the driver had to take it back to the stables. The women refused to give their names. They were not hurt, and refused the service of a surgeon.

HOW SUNSTROKE SHOULD BE TREATED. Dr. Blauvelt, chief of the summer corps of physiclans of the Health Department, received yesterday several thousand circulars, printed in four languages, containing instructions for the treatment of cases of heat prostration and sunstroke.
